

Exhibit 166

Ili Shaun,

I am extremely dissatisfied with this customer service. The shoe IS FAKE and you claim to sell 100% authentic shoes. I have real Nike Dunks that I am able to compare to the pair I was sold on StockX. That should be reason enough to be eligible for a refund. I would like a number to call in regards to this case. "Manufacturing errors" do not result in a fake looking and smelling shoe; if it did, many other buyers would not have the issue that I am having.

On Wed, 29 Jun 2022 at 11:53 am, support@stockx.com <support@stockx.com> wrote:

Hey Lina,

Thank you for reaching out to us on StockX and for your reply.

First of all, I apologize for the delayed response as we are experiencing a higher volume. I appreciate you taking the time to send us the photos of your purchase, and I apologize that the item you received is not exactly what you expected.

After reviewing the images, our authenticators see that these flaws you are seeing do meet our deadstock conditions. The issue you refer to has been a consistent manufacturing variance throughout its production.

While I understand that you are not completely satisfied with this purchase, please remember that these have been manufactured in a factory that has resulted in natural flaws due to mass production.

It is with a heavy heart that I must inform you that, after much effort and referral to our specialty team, we are not able to approve the return/refund for this order. I apologize in advance for such a difficult announcement. It is my sincere hope that this situation does not dampen your intention to buy and sell via the StockX website.

However, I can confirm that the item you are receiving is authentic.

If you do not wish to keep them, you are always welcome to relist them back on StockX! Please let us know if you need anything else.

Thank you for choosing StockX as your preferred online shopping platform.

Best Regards,

Shaun A.

StockX Customer Support